We are a professional touring company exclusively for professional culinarians.

With a chef's eye, we know that not all chefs are the same. Therefore, we structure our tours for different chef types such as those from hotels (Luxury to mid-scale), high street dining, culinary students, educators, chef-owners etc.

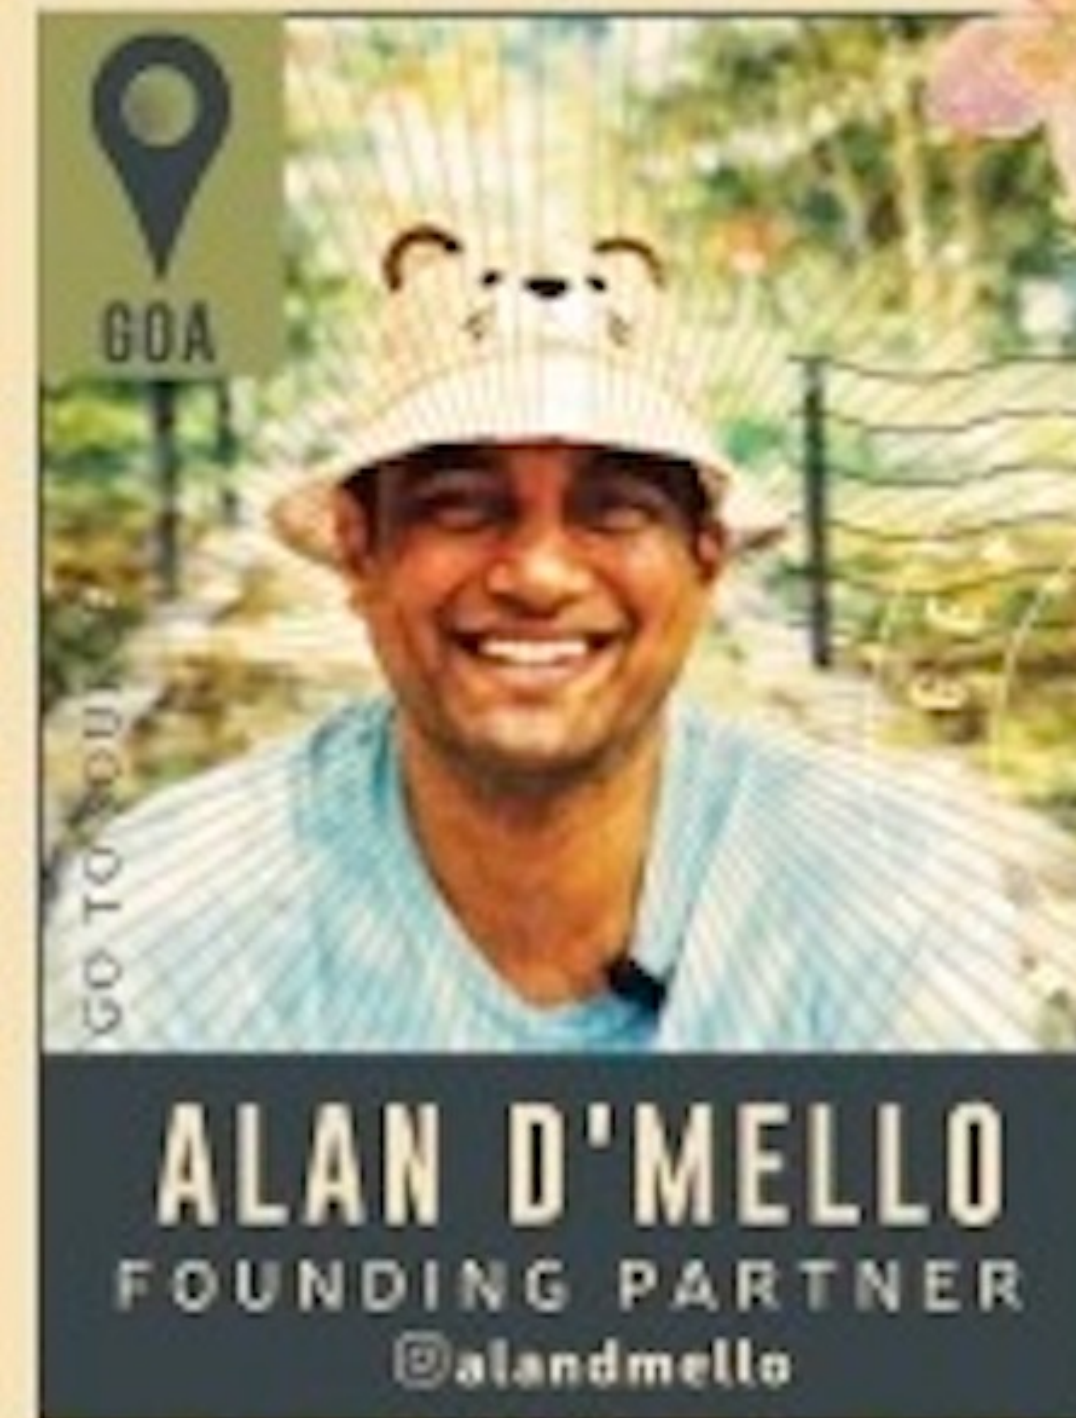

For all tours, especially the international editions, we work closely with the respective governments, local experts and even their trade bodies to facilitate easier procurement of authentic produce.

Our work has an immensely positive, long-term impact for chefs, communities and partners.

Our tours are fully immersive learning experiences. With a high degree of customisation, we are able to cater to each chef/organisation's specific information and skill needs within the general framework of the tour.

They range from intra-city day tours to weekend and week-long deep dives in to regional cuisines. We have something for every pro-cook.

Alan is a bawarchi since 1994. He identifies as a hotelier, historian, storyteller, chef and proudly wears the moniker 'India's most trouble-making chef.'

INDIA SPECIALS

Chef Tours is based in Goa, India. Our latest group tours in India focus on deep immersions into regional cultures and their cuisines. From passionate agriculturalists, farm immersions, historians, cultural experts and award-winning chefs, our special regional tours are the best way to understand the culinary kaleidoscope that is India.

Remember, India is not just a country, it is a sub-continent, with cultures and peoples as diverse and steeped in history as Africa and Europe.
